Lesson 1: Introduce Yourself

Module 1 | 45 minutes | Greetings and me | Grades 3–6 · ages 8–11

Objective: Greet people, introduce yourself with your first name, class and likes, use polite phrases, and give a 30-second self-introduction.

Success criteria

- I can greet people for the time of day.
- I can introduce myself with my first name, class and likes.
- I can use because to give a reason.
- I can use polite words and keep private things private.

Key vocabulary

- greeting: Words you say when you meet someone, like “good morning”.
- introduce: Tell people who you are.
- favourite: The one you like the most.
- because: A word that tells the reason.
- polite: Kind and respectful in the way you speak.
- private: Something you keep to yourself, like your address.

You will need

- Projector or screen share with Kitabash (lesson video, activities)
- Devices: 1 per learner (laptop, tablet or phone); a microphone helps for speaking tasks
- Printed worksheet, paper and pencil
- Project files: l01-practice-sheet-introduce-yourself.md, l01-teacher-script.md

Timed lesson plan (45 min)

Time	Stage	What happens
5 min	Warm-up game	Name-and-action circle: “Hello, I’m ___ and I like ___” with an action; everyone repeats. Second round faster.
5 min	Watch + thumbs check	Play the video. Thumbs up or down: “It is OK to tell a new friend your home address.” (Down.)
5 min	Teacher model + spot the problems	Teacher gives a great introduction, then a mumbled one. Learners call out three problems; write the five-part frame on screen.
6 min	Build-along	Learners fill their 30-second introduction card on the practice sheet (greeting, name, class, two likes with because, ending).
7 min	Game time	Greetings match, then the “share or keep private” sort as a quick competition — first three with all correct win a shout-out. Then Complete Zoya’s introduction.

6 min	Pair practice (breakout)	Pairs practise the introduction three ways: whisper, normal, big voice. Partner ticks the speaking checklist and times it.
7 min	Show-and-tell: speaking round	Every learner gives their 30-second introduction on camera. The class claps and the teacher names one star from the checklist for each speaker.
4 min	Probe + exit ticket	New situation: first day at camp (poll), then the chess club write task. Exit ticket in the chat.

Unplugged warm-up

Name-and-action circle (5 min): each learner says “Hello, I’m ___ and I like ___” and does an action for the like (bowling a cricket ball, dancing, eating). Everyone repeats the name and copies the action. Then go round again faster — can the class remember everyone’s name and action?

Teaching the idea

Today learners build a short, safe, structured self-introduction: greeting, first name, class, two likes with “because”, and a polite closing. The structure matters more than fancy words — it gives nervous children something to hold on to. Model it yourself first with your own first name and likes. Set the privacy rule early: first names only, never addresses, phone numbers or surnames. Praise effort and clear voices, not perfect grammar.

Analogy: An introduction is like a sandwich: the greeting and the thank you are the bread, and your name and likes are the tasty filling.

Live demo: 1) Say your own 30-second introduction with big energy, holding up five fingers and folding one for each part (greet, name, class or job, likes with because, thank you). 2) Say it again badly: mumble, look down, no greeting, and ask learners to spot three problems. 3) Write the five-part frame on the shared whiteboard. 4) Role-play “Meeting someone new” with one confident learner: you say “Hi, I’m ___. Nice to meet you.” and they reply. 5) Point out turn-taking: answer, then ask one question back.

Questions to ask

Ask	Listen for
What are the five parts of our introduction?	Greeting, first name, class, likes with because, thank you.
Which greeting do we use at 10 o’clock in the morning?	Good morning.
What do you say when someone says “Nice to meet you”?	Nice to meet you too.
Why do we add “because”?	It tells people the reason and makes the sentence longer and more interesting.

Name two things we never share in an introduction.	Any of: address, phone number, surname, password, school address.

Differentiation

Support
Give the five-part frame with picture icons and let learners fill only the gaps. Allow them to read from the card the first time, then look up for the last sentence.

Stretch
Add a third like and a question for the listeners at the end: “What do you like doing?” Try the introduction without the card.

Common misconceptions

Misconception	How to fix it
“Myself Aarav.”	Say “My name is Aarav” or “I am Aarav.” “Myself” is not used this way in English.
“I am having a sister.”	Say “I have a sister.” We do not use “having” for things we own or family.
Speaking very fast to finish quickly	Slow down and pause after each sentence. Slow sounds confident.
Sharing the full address to sound friendly	Friendly people share likes, not addresses. First name only.

Assessment

Use the Code Lab results (auto-checked), the quick checks and the Probe answers. Written answers arrive in your review queue.

Exit ticket
Write one sentence about something you like, using “because”.

Homework
Give your 30-second introduction to two family members. Ask each one for one star (something good). Write the stars on your practice sheet.

Answer key — Kitabash activities

1. Match each greeting or polite phrase to when you use it (perform · matching)

Good morning → Before twelve noon · Good afternoon → After lunch, before evening · Good night → When you go to bed · Nice to meet you → When you meet someone new · Excuse me → When you want someone's attention politely

2. Share in a class introduction, or keep private? (perform · categorize)

OK to share: Your first name, Your favourite sport, Your class (like Class 4), Your favourite food
Keep private: Your home address, Your phone number, Your password, Your full name and surname

3. Complete Zoya's introduction (perform · fill blank)

Answers: is · am · because · listening

4. Speak: my 30-second introduction (perform · speaking)

Listen for: I greeted everyone · I said my first name clearly · I said my class · I shared two likes with because · I looked up and smiled · I ended with thank you

5. New situation: first day at camp (probe · multiple choice)

Answer: Nice to meet you too! I'm Arjun. I love drawing animals.

6. New situation: the chess club (probe · free response)

Look for: hello, name, because, thank. Example: Hello everyone! My name is Meera and I am in Class 4. I like chess because I enjoy planning my moves. Thank you, and nice to meet you all!
